UBC ROWERS CAPTURE GOLD MEDAL

Their Fish Stories Were Proved

trophy; Colonist publisher Seth Halton; Mrs. Frances Francis, the only person to win crests in all four categories, and Sid Upton, whose 43.2 spring won him Youngstown food waste disposer donated by W. R. Menzies. See picture and story on page 2.—(Colonist photo by Bud Kinsman.)

Four-Man Crew Wins; Eights Second by Nose

Canada's First Victory

MELBOURNE (CP) — Canada today swept to an easy gold medal in the rowing fours without coxswain, and was narrowly edged out of a major competitive double as Yale University edged UBC in the eights.

All 13 Canadian athletes involved were from British Columbia, with Vancouver Island well represented.

The University of British Columbia fours without coxswain gave Canada its first gold medal of the 1956 Olympic Games.

FIVE LENGTHS

The UBC victory in the fours was a brilliant five-length win over the United States crew, with France third, two lengths behind the Americans, and Italy another length back.

In the eight-man event, Canada was nosed out in a thrilling race when the U.S. crew from Yale University ended up three-quarters of a length in front for its third gold medal of the day.

The eight victory was a comeback for the Yale crew who had lost in the first round an opportunity to advance automatically and had to row in the repechage—second chance phase—to get back into the competition.

The times were: United States, 6:35.2; Canada, 6:37.1; Australia, 6:39.2; Sweden, 6:48.1.

EIGHTH IN ROW

The Yale crew gave the U.S. its eighth consecutive gold medal in the eights since 1920, and the victory meant the third gold medal for the U.S. today although the Americans suffered a setback when Vaitcheslav Ivanov of Russia captured the singles sculls and Jack Kelly, Jr., of Philadelphia, had to take third place behind Stuart Mackenzie of Australia.

The eights proved a bow-to-bow battle among the three leaders down to the 1,600-metre mark of the 2,000-metre course on Lake Wendouree.

The U.S. was leading at the mid-way mark and 400 metres from the end the Yale crew lifted their boat from 32 to 36 to move half a length in front of Australia, with Canada coming up fast. Yale lifted the stroke to 38, then to 40.

FINAL BURST

The UBC crew then came up with a final burst to edge Australia.

The crowds along the shore let out roars of cheers for what was considered one of the greatest races of Olympic crew history.

Earlier victories for the U.S. came in the pair-oars both with and without coxswain.

Along with Ivanov's win in the singles, Russia won a gold medal in the double sculls. Italy won the fours with coxswain.

TERRIFIC BID

It was a heartbreaker for the UBC eights to miss out in their terrific bid for a gold medal to add to that won by the UBC fours without coxswain.

The UBC crews had already assured Canada of rowing points Monday as they both won semi-final heats in impressive fashion.

For the first time in Olympic history, a Canadian crew reached the finals of the fours without coxswain with a 12-length victory over France. The Russian crew was third.

B.C. CREWS

The UBC fours was manned by Archie McElroy, Cranbrook; Lorne Loomer, Nelson; Walter D'Onofrio, Vancouver; Don Arnold, Kelowna.

Eights comprised Phil Kueber, Duncan; Dick McClure, Courtenay; Bob Wilson, Kamloops; David Hellwell, Vancouver; Wayne Pretty, Winfield; Bill through such organizations as McKerrell, Vancouver; Doug the Christmas Bureau, Salvation Army, and surplus food stall, West, Vancouver.

Crack University of British Columbia fours without coxswain easily won a gold medal for Canada at the Olympics today, finishing five lengths ahead of the powerful U.S. squad. (CP).

Berlin Trains Blocked

BERLIN (UPI)—The Russians turned back a west-bound British train at Germany's iron-curtain border Monday in an ominous renewal of travel curbs like those that started the Soviet blockade of Berlin in 1948.

An American train headed for Berlin was allowed to pass after a two-hour delay at the border, but only when it appeared the U.S. Army had surrendered to Soviet demands.

No one would say officially just what the Russians are up to, but it appeared they are challenging the right of the Western allies to carry civilians on the trains they operate between Berlin and the West.

British trains were delayed at the border twice last week, and it was reported then that big Russians were insisting that only soldiers, sailors and airmen had the right to ride the Allied trains.

Allied ambassadors in Bonn met today to discuss the new Russian interference with travel. Western officials here took up the incident directly with the Russians.

OTTAWA (CP) — The special session of Parliament opened Monday with a powerful blast from Prime Minister St. Laurent at big powers of the world.

"I have been scandalized more than once by the attitude of the larger powers, the big powers as we call them," he said in the Commons after Governor-General Massey opened the session.

All too frequently they had "treated the charter of the United Nations as an instrument with which to regiment the smaller nations and as an instrument which did not have to be considered when their own so-called vital interests were at stake."

Howard Green (PC-Vancouver Quadra), who described the prime minister as "a bitter man making a bitter speech," caused an uproar when he attacked the government for failing to back the Anglo-French intervention.

He said that Canadian youths in the police were being sent to the Middle East and might have to fight British and French forces.

Green's statement drew a howl of protest from Liberal back benchers, and the prime minister regretted the action of Britain and France in Egypt because it helped shield and obscure the terrible Soviet crimes in Hungary.

Mr. St. Laurent spoke, "frequently with unusual heat, after Hon. Earl Rowe, acting opposition leader, charged the government with following "a course of gratuitous condemnation" of the British-French armed intervention in Egypt."

Mr. Rowe said the intervention was "designed to prevent a major war in the Suez area." By merely following "unrealistic" United States policies, the Canadian government had "encouraged a treacherous and anti-Semitic attitude on the part of the Egyptian dictator" Premier Nasser.

He said Nasser looks upon the UN force solely as an instrument to force the invaders to go home. "Surely it was never proposed for any such purpose."

Canadians were entitled to know whether UN troops were going to police the evacuation of British-French forces, and then move out when ordered to by Nasser.

"If the United Nations yields to this request, our troops should not leave Canada because such a plan would be likely to do more harm than good."

The criticisms formed the main part of a motion of non-confidence in the government presented by the Progressive Conservatives as the session opened to consider Can-

Lloyd:
Stood
Alone
Before

NEW YORK (AP)—Selwyn Lloyd, British foreign secretary, said Monday night Britain's action in the Suez Canal zone had helped avert a full-scale war in the Middle East.

Lloyd said he remains "convinced that we were right to do just what we did." And he added, "just as a decisive blow struck at some date late in the '30s might have averted the drift to the Second World War, so I believe now we have given the world the chance to avert the drift to a full-scale war in the Middle East."

Speaking at the annual dinner of the English-Speaking Union, Lloyd noted that "many governments do not approve of our action."

"Well," he said, "we have stood almost alone before and we have not always been proved to be wrong."

Christmas Fund Gets Fine Start

Sparked by a $100 donation from Lieutenant-Governor and Mrs. Frank Ross, the "500 Christmas Fund" of The Daily Colonist was off to a fine start yesterday.

Contributions from a considerable number of people, combined with the original gift of $200 by this newspaper, pushed the fund to $428 after the first day of counting.

A healthy future donation was assured Canada of rowing points Monday as they both won semi-final heats in impressive fashion.

For the first time in Olympic history, a Canadian crew reached the finals of the fours without coxswain with a 12-length victory over France. The Russian crew was third.

Initial Costs

$10,000,000 Voted For UN Policing

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP)—The UN Assembly overrode Russian objections Monday night and approved a grant of $10,000,000 to pay the initial costs of the emergency police force in Egypt.

The vote was 52 to 9 with 13 countries abstaining. Only the Soviet bloc countries voted against it. The United States, Britain and France voted for it. Canada voted with the majority.

Countries abstaining were Cambodia, Costa Rica, Cuba, Ecuador, El Salvador, Guatemala, Israel, Luxembourg, Mexico, Nicaragua, Paraguay, Turkey and South Africa.

Before the balloting, Russia demanded that Britain, France and Israel pay the full cost of the emergency force in Egypt and of clearing the Suez Canal.

Richard G. Casey, Australian external affairs minister, sought to repair the rift between the U.S. and her western allies over Egypt.

Casey brought into the open the privately expressed wishes of many western diplomats when he said:

"We in Australia say to our mother country Britain and to our good friends in the United States: put first things first . . . unite in mutual trust and get together for the good of the whole democratic world."

Federal Rail Grant

PREMIER BENNETT'S announcement that the Dominion has agreed to increase its grant towards construction of new mileage on the Pacific Great Eastern Railway is good news. The additional help to be given by Ottawa for the railway's extension into the Peace River area, at $9,375,000, added to the prior grant of $25,000 a mile for 41 miles of the North Vancouver-Squamish section, will bring the federal grants to slightly more than ten millions. That is important assistance, and it will cut some of the drain on British Columbia concerning the whole project.

The Premier is to be congratulated on standing to his contention in the long argument. Why Ottawa should wait until now to hold its end up in connection with rail development which must serve the whole of the nation as well as this province remains a puzzle. The PGE at its northern reaches is certainly a development project; it will enlarge national opportunities quite as much as it will favor direct communication with the lower Mainland coast. By acting tardily the Dominion leaves the suspicion that it has been saving this action as a pre-election favor, an inducement to B.C. voters next year. The suspicion could be unjust, but it may be unavoidable.

On the positive side, total aid of some $10,400,000 towards construction costs on the provincially-owned railway will be very welcome. If in addition Ottawa fulfills its pledge to rebate taxes on certain construction materials that also will be helpful. British Columbia will still be taking a big share of the load, in justification of its own faith in the north and its great potential. What else but the extension of the PGE to Dawson Creek and Fort St. John could have made an equivalent contribution to the national interest? In view of what British Columbia is doing, the Dominion could hardly have turned its back on the development.

Drinking on the Ferries

WHEN a coroner speaks in his official capacity about factors contributing to the death rate on the highways much weight has to be attached to what he says. Dr. W. H. Lewis, the coroner at Nanaimo, is convinced that drinking done by motorists during the ferry crossing from Vancouver to the Island is a major cause of serious accidents later. On that account he recommends that the sale of liquor and beer on ferries be prohibited, and also that it be made illegal to supply drivers who stop for refreshment at liquor outlets.

The coroner's views may be sound in theory but there is some doubt about their being practicable. Some of those who while away the ferry crossing in the cocktail lounge may drink far more than they should during the two hours or so between Vancouver and Nanaimo and thereby make themselves a danger on the highways afterwards. Dr. Lewis is in a position to observe the tragic effects of this.

Drinking on ferries, however, did not begin when the Liquor Act was amended to permit the sale of drinks, and there is little reason to suppose that it would stop if the bars were closed. There always has been a lot of drinking on the boats, and the question is, which is preferable from the point of view of driving safety: liquor sipped openly in the leisurely atmosphere of a lounge or gulped straight out of a bottle in a washroom? Judging from the experience of hotels, where private drinking in bedrooms has been greatly reduced since bars became legal, the lesser evil would appear to be legal consumption on the ferries, where drinkers are under the watchful eyes of stewards who are forbidden by law to serve anyone showing signs of intoxication. Now that Dr. Lewis has drawn attention to the matter there may be stricter supervision in this respect.

As for prohibiting the sale of liquor to motorists ashore: desirable as such a law might be, it is difficult to see how it could be enforced. Discrimination of that sort would put impossible responsibilities onto bartenders, who would have to decide which of all the customers served were drivers and which were not. The coroner's observations and suggestions are important as reflecting the grave problem created by drivers who drink. It is a pity that they are not workable.

Grey Cup Fever

PHENOMENAL in its way is the development of the Grey Cup spirit. Television has a big hand in this, of course, for the annual Canadian football classic between east and west has become national property and is no longer confined to spectators at the game. As with U.S. world series baseball this sudden-death football playoff has become a focal point of interest all across the country. It has the added merit, also, of being a Canadian sporting contest even if most of the star players are imported from across the line. Rivalry is closely associated with the fair name of the cities which sponsor the various league teams during the football season.

Great scenes of enthusiasm sparked the Grey Cup game last year in Vancouver, which had only an academic interest in the result other than that the coastal area is part of the west and there was a sporting bias against the eastern champions. This year's neutral site, Toronto, was in a similar if reversed position, but once again the impact of the game was tremendous. The Grey Cup in fact now creates more excitement and partisan fervor than does the older established ice hockey playoffs. This was even more noticeable than ever last Saturday when the Edmonton club made history by defeating Montreal for the third successive year.

One passing thought induced by Saturday's game was that the home-bred Canadian players are coming more to the front, a fact highlighted by a Canadian quarterback directing his team's play for the first time in three decades. This gives rise to the possibility that some day Canadian football may become a purely Canadian game, even if professionalism normally recognizes few international boundaries. Actually were all the players Canadians the games would be just as thrilling and well worth watching; if the general standard of play were slightly reduced thereby it would go unnoticed for the teams would be on level standing in this respect. Certainly the competing clubs, now involved in quarter-million budgets for a two-month season, would find sponsorship much cheaper.

Meanwhile congratulations are due the Edmonton Eskimos, which brought to the Alberta capital the kind of victory which justifies whole-hearted support.

Interpreting the News

French Communists Desert

By BERNARD KAPLAN
North American Newspaper Alliance

PARIS—French Socialists, wasting no time, have embarked on an unprecedented "door-to-door" campaign, aimed at winning over some 4,000,000 working class voters who the Socialists believe, are ripe to abandon Communism in repugnance at Russian treachery in Hungary.

Socialist leaders, led by Premier Guy Mollet, have decided that events in Hungary provide the first genuine opportunity since the Second World War to strip the French Communist Party of its mass working class support, support which has made it far and away the largest political force in the nation.

Under the spirited direction of their party secretary, Pierre Comin, the Socialists are striking for this objective with all the resources they can muster.

Most important, they are seeking out individual Communists. Not the party professionals who are unlikely to waver whatever happens, but sympathizers who have sincerely supported the Communists for what they felt to be upright reasons. There are a lot of these in France. The Socialists believe that now, for the first time, they can be weaned away.

They could be right. The French workers have steadfastly cast their ballots for the Communists in response to their economic pledges. Between elections they generally have paid little or no attention to party dialectical disputes or Russian foreign policy. But evidence is mounting that they have been hit squarely between the eyes by the Hungarian tragedy.

For the first time they have witnessed the effects of Communist mass terror on workers like themselves.

There could be little chance of their taking this. Up until a day or so before Russia moved to crush the revolt, French Communist Party newspapers were freely admitting that workers were in the forefront of the revolution, rightly demanding better living and working conditions. The subsequent switch in Communist propaganda—to wit, Soviet tanks were mowing down counter-revolutionaries who sought to betray the workers—came too late to fool a good many French workers.

It is a different proposition when you get letters from strangers, or people whose handwriting is unfamiliar.

Astounding, really, some of the calligraphy. Especially when obviously the composition was done with care and the writer is interesting (apparently). Yet, the pity of it, half the effort is wasted because the letter is unreadable.

I have heard it said that President Eisenhower's handwriting is abominable. So bad in fact that once when he had occasion to write to the late King and was told he would have to do it by hand, he was dismayed.

"What's the use?" he said despairingly, "he won't be able to read it."

People like Eisenhower can afford to write a poor hand, however. This failing can be put down to the foibles of the great.

But not with the rest of us. Perhaps we should do something about it, especially when addressing Christmas mail.

Now of course typewriters don't abound in households and anyway for personal correspondence handwriting is more intimate. Within your own family circle this is no drawback. Aunt Jemima's little loops and lapses, for instance, are quite familiar. Experience has taught you how to fill in the gaps.

It is a different proposition when you get letters from strangers, or people whose handwriting is unfamiliar.

An eerie business it must be for a wild creature to comprehend life. For nearly 10 months of the year they dwell in security. Not merely security—for those that come in contact with the curious two-legged monster with all his unearthly powers of engine on land and water and sky find him aggressively friendly, offering gifts, begging the wild things to come near, pointing cameras, leading little children close to behold the beauty of the children of the wild.

Then, without warning, suddenly all is changed. In an instant every marsh blazes with furious guns. Through the autumn woods the two-legged monster, so lately kind and softly enticing, stalks warily, lightning in his hands. Gone are the roadsides visitors with their popcorn, apples, peanuts; and when a deer sees a man, it is death he beholds.

For weeks on end the ruthless reversal holds true. The harmless man of last winter, spring and summer has turned into a hiding, pursuing implacable Nemesis. All over the wilderness, from the Arctic goose marshes down through the moose's muskegs, the deer's hardwood hills, the partridges' gullies, the ducks' ponds and ice shores, every wild creature runs, hides, flies high, flares wide, in universal fright and unease.

Then, in an instant as inexplicable to the creature mind as the instant on which it all began, last September, it ends. Not a shot is fired. Out of the wilderness troop the hundreds of thousands of hunters, giving it back its silence and its proper mystery.

I do not suppose the wild creatures have any understanding of mysteries. To them, life itself is without explanation.

But it must be strange to be a wild creature, now that peace has come again in the wilderness, and to listen to the emptiness.

Go—or Perish

This Is Not Cowardice

Letters addressed to and published in the Colonist on the subject of civil defence, and particularly the evacuation policy, have contained so many misconceptions and misinterpretations of civil defence policy that, unfortunately, they have served only a public servant. I would refrain from answering such letters, but when it is a matter of national survival I would fail in my duty if I did not correct erroneous ideas and impressions contained in the letters.

The first mistaken impression many of your correspondents seem to have is the idea that all inhabitants of Victoria would, in a body, be evacuated to Courtenay. I see no reason for this other than the fact that the forum discussing ways and means and plans for shelter and feeding large numbers of people was held at Courtenay.

There is no intention whatever of taking people all the way from Victoria to Courtenay. Sooke, Shawnigan, Cobble Hill, Duncan, Chemainus, Cowichan Lake, Maple Bay, and all those places around there would be able to afford ample shelter for all those people who would wish to follow our evacuation plan.

One correspondent mentioned hospital patients. Existing hospitals north of Victoria can be expanded to take care of a large number of patients, and for the less serious cases there are many large schools with facilities that could be put to hospital use. Nursing home patients and old people in institutions and settlements would, of course, be treated in much the same way.

Many of your correspondents have pointed to the example of the British people during bombing in the last war who remained at their work and "did not run away" as our pamphlet allegedly proposes.

Here again, I fear your correspondents have overlooked a true conception of what could happen should we be called upon to defend ourselves. The bombing over England, while terrible enough, was mild compared with what we might be subjected to in the future. However, with the type of explosive used on England, the people were protected by "running down" into shelters such as tubes and underground railways. Many other forms of shelter were used and afforded protection except, possibly, against a direct hit.

Here, with present-day atomic explosives, shelters would be useless.

Even with the least powerful type of atom bomb complete obliteration of the city would take place for a radius from ground zero (that is, the point of the explosion), for at least half a mile. With the heavier types of atomic bombs that have been tested recently this radius, of course, has been increased to nearly a mile. Beyond this point very heavy damage would occur. With the hydrogen bomb the radius of total damage would be just over three miles, with very heavy damage for another two miles at least, in which few people could survive.

Under these circumstances civil defence authorities have had to consider some form of protection for the people other than that used in the previous war. After very long and careful study it has been decided that the only protection in this present age is to place as much distance as possible between a target and the people, should conditions become critical and warnings of impending attack be received. This form has been agreed upon and announced as its policy by the federal cabinet. Therefore, we must substitute the word "distance" for the word "down."

Unfortunately this word "distance" has been interpreted as running away and, in some minds, immediately suggests cowardice. But, when one considers all the circumstances, it is no more cowardly to "run away" under present conditions than it was to "run down" to shelter under conditions experienced in the last war.

Citizens who follow our plan of evacuation should not be subjected to unfair imputation of cowardice. They are NOT running away—they are doing exactly what the people did in Europe, defending themselves by taking shelter to live and work and fight for their country; the only difference is that now it is being done by "going away" instead of "going down."

I admire the bold brave souls who feel they should stay in the city and take what comes, but they would not be of any use to their country buried under mountains of debris—the result of nuclear attack.

Thinking Aloud

"...of shoes—and ships—and sealing wax—of cabbages and kings."

By TOM TAYLOR

AS you sit down these days to address your Christmas mail, how is your handwriting?

Will anyone be able to read it?

A funny thing, handwriting. One spends youthful years practicing the mechanical art of putting pencil or pen to paper, and then when grown up and out in the world on one's own...

Poof!

Hen's feet dipped in ink and stamped across the letter sheet.

Some people think a slap-dash signature is a mark of distinction, the well-dressed man on paper, as it were. You know the kind of stroke. It says aloud: "I could do better than this but I can afford to take liberties because really I am a master of the art."

Prominent men, some of them, as well as many who think they are prominent, are prone to this affectation.

In a way it is not so bad when the signature is a puzzle, the letter being typewritten. Incidentally you'd be appalled at the number of missives reaching a newspaper office which are practically illegible.

Some of them take an hour to decipher, or would do so if an hour could be spared for the exercise, and then only with the aid of aspirins and a magnifying glass.

I must say that printers of bygone days must have had a ghastly time. Old-timers who remember when everything was written by hand, or nearly everything still shudder when recalling the scripts they had to handle. Even today the odd bit of copy is handwritten—an item from outside if it is passably legible—but penmanship finds little favor against the typewriter.

Now of course typewriters don't abound in households and anyway for personal correspondence handwriting is more intimate. Within your own family circle this is no drawback. Aunt Jemima's little loops and lapses, for instance, are quite familiar. Experience has taught you how to fill in the gaps.

It is a different proposition when you get letters from strangers, or people whose handwriting is unfamiliar.

Astounding, really, some of the calligraphy. Especially when obviously the composition was done with care and the writer is interesting (apparently). Yet, the pity of it, half the effort is wasted because the letter is unreadable.

I have heard it said that President Eisenhower's handwriting is abominable. So bad in fact that once when he had occasion to write to the late King and was told he would have to do it by hand, he was dismayed.

"What's the use?" he said despairingly, "he won't be able to read it."

People like Eisenhower can afford to write a poor hand, however. This failing can be put down to the foibles of the great.

But not with the rest of us. Perhaps we should do something about it, especially when addressing Christmas mail.

Reports from Ottawa

THE PATTERN laid down for the special parliamentary session which opened yesterday was the special session of 1950. Prime Minister St. Laurent specifically said so, and judging by his statements to the press, he doesn't expect the session will last out the week.

The contestants for the Conservative leadership will be eager to debate government policy, but most MPs will be concerned only with getting the essential work done quickly so that they can go home.

The situation has changed since then. The defenders of Prime Minister Eden have been encouraged by Eden's assertions that the Anglo-French attack on Egypt foiled a Soviet plot to seize the Middle East. And St. Laurent's efforts to minimize the rebuff by Nasser, coupled with the transparent attempt of Pearson, Hammarskjold and Burns to conceal the Canadian government's loss of face, have given the Tories all the ammunition men's policies would have been more readily obtainable. Two weeks ago I wrote that "the government has steered such a careful course... that the opposition will be hard put to make any strong criticism stick."

The Korea crisis session, when the issue was committing Canada to participation in a small war which might turn into a big one, lasted only 16 days. The issue now, of contributing forces to patrol the Suez-Sinai area, is much less grave.

Moreover, the 1950 session was faced with two emergencies, the second being the railway strike. Parliament dealt with both, passed a special budget, increased taxes, gave the government power to control strategic materials and consumer credit, and laid down new rules for the use of Canadian forces in accordance with Canada's commitments to the UN and NATO.

Letters to the Editor

So Near Death

This letter is written with the hope that the parents of the little girl concerned will read it, and it may prevent a tragedy.

On Saturday, Nov. 24, at approximately 5:15 p.m., just as it was getting quite dark and the visibility poor, I was heading down town and waiting for the stop light at Oak Bay Junction. Just as the light turned green a little girl, about nine years of age, wearing dark clothes and riding a bicycle, passed me on the left side, signalled with her arm that she was turning left to go down Fort Street.

In her little mind she must have imagined that her arm was a magic wand that would stop all oncoming traffic, because she cut directly in front of two oncoming lanes of traffic. By some fluke she managed to pass through, while I sat in my car with my heart in my mouth.

If the parents of this little girl do read this I hope they will make sure she does not again take such a risk, because they do not know how close they came to losing their little daughter that night.

Tribute to Police

May we express our appreciation and sincere thanks to the officers of the Saanich police department for their kind help and understanding during our recent tragedy.

These men are to be commended for the unfailing courtesy and sincere efforts to assist us, this well beyond the requirements of their duty. This has been a source of comfort and strength to both of us and we are grateful for the consideration and friendly guidance accorded us.

We would ask you through this column to convey our thanks to the following officers: Corporal E. Anderson, Constables E. Walton, R. Peterson, C. Trueitt and N. Baker.

Moral Education

Dr. Brock Chisholm, who has been giving a series of lectures in some 15 cities under the auspices of the American Humanist Association, is not alone in his opinion that children do not have to go to Sunday school in order to achieve the right moral attitude.

In the same issue of the Colonist that quoted Dr. Chisholm as saying some people send their children to Sunday school to learn things that they no longer believe themselves, Dean Scarfe of the UBC department of education, was reported as stating that moral education was not concerned with dogma, and that the schools could do more to improve the morality of children by making certain the highest quality teachers are assigned to teach in the lowest grades.

In my opinion both the teachers and the parents should set the children a good example, and in this respect the school board should also be more concerned than they are at the present time. A bad example is shown by our school board when it leases the school properties for gambling while at the same time it says that gambling is morally wrong and detrimental to the youth of the community.

How can teachers or parents reprimand children for gambling when our schools are used for this same purpose with the consent of the school trustees?

LINN A. GALE.

Soviet Servants

A news item in today's Colonist (Nov. 22) tells how the president of the Communist party in New Zealand was expelled by the members for endorsing British action in Egypt. By inference this means that these same members support Russian suppression of the workers in Hungary with mass murders and infinite cruelties.

In Russia today trade unions have no voice in setting hours and wages; newspapers print only what they are told to print; writers, authors, poets must never criticize the government; technologists and engineers are servants of the state, therefore inarticulate; public opinion as we practice it in Canada does not exist, the secret police attend to that.

It is apparent that centuries of despotism have conditioned the Russian populace to accept Communism or its twin, Fascism, with equal apathy by the rulers czars or Communists; how men raised in an English colony where freedom of speech is fundamental can justify the expulsion of one of their members for exercising this privilege can only be explained by their slavish support of the dictum of the politburo which lays down the law that the defence of the Soviet Union must be considered paramount to all national interests.

Let the Axe Fall

Alderman Robert Macmillan should be highly commended for his indomitable courage in standing alone in the interests of civic economy against overwhelming odds.

The apathy of our city council towards civic economy and threatening higher licence fees is shocking and astounding, which clearly indicates the way our civic wind blows.

Never before did Victoria need more Ald. Macmillans than if does today if business men and taxpayers alike hope to stay solvent. Civic affairs in Victoria need a thorough shake-up to its very roots. Needless thousands of hard-earned taxpayers' dollars are being wasted to attract tourists when a fraction of this sum would make permanent tourist attractions right at home, and this hotel which pays around $3,000 a year taxes have yet to know of one tourist ever being directed to them by this agency.

We badly need active men of vision, civic-minded men like Ald. Macmillan who will honestly practice civic economy. Men who are not afraid to let the axe fall where it will, in the interests of all of us.

Business Licence IssueChamber Executive Answers Challenge

A challenge to directors of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce to call a general membership meeting on business licence fees was answered yesterday by Ald. Austin Curtis, Chamber president.

Ald. Curtis said the directors were always ready to call a general meeting if the membership wanted one, but that the membership had given no indication of such a desire in this case.

Ald. Donald Smith, who issued the challenge, claimed that a resolution passed by the directors, discouraging city council from taking quick action on revision of the trades-licence system, "does not reflect the feeling of the rank and file members."

He said that small business men, "who comprise the majority of the membership and whom I know are very dissatisfied with the present situation, want immediate action taken."

Ald. Curtis said that not only were the directors ready to call a general meeting whenever the membership wanted, but he himself had proposed at the directors' meeting Friday that general meetings be held more frequently.

He said the membership committee headed by William Yardley had taken under consideration his suggestion that quarterly meetings should be held.

Business men, large and small, will have an opportunity Friday at 2 p.m. to express their views to Ald. Smith and Ald. Curtis on trades-licensing and business tax.

Judge Henry C. Hall imposed a fine of $250, but allowed Morris to pay it in installments of $50 each. The magistrate did not suspend Morris' driver's licence pending receipt of a probation report on accused, a coal truck driver by occupation.

Stiff fines were handed out in city police court yesterday to two youths who crashed a stolen car into a power pole early Saturday while being chased by Oak Bay police. They pleaded guilty to taking a car without the owner's consent.

Stops Montreal Scoring Threat

Two of the outstanding players in Saturday's Grey Cup game were Jackie Parker of Edmonton and Montreal's Hal Patterson, who received the Schenley award as Canada's outstanding football player two days before the game. However, Parker added strength to the argument that he should have received the award by scoring three touchdowns and kicking a single as well as starring on defence. Here, Parker puts his arm inside Patterson's to deflect a pass. —(CPC)

Alouettes Plan Shuffle; Coulter Quits Football

MONTREAL (CP) — Big Tex Coulter, for four years a mainstay of the Montreal Alouettes line, has decided to retire, club officials said Monday night.

Leo Dandurand, president of the Big Four champions, said the 265-pound tackle got in touch with vice-president Ted Workman Monday and said he felt he should give up the game.

The retirement announcement came as the Alouettes began disbanding after bowing for the third straight year to Edmonton Eskimos in the Grey Cup game. Coach Douglas Peasehead Walker said he will leave Montreal Thursday for the United States to search for players for next year's team.

ALL-STAR TACKLE

Coulter, 32, was twice an All-American for Army and played six years with New York Giants of the National Football League before coming to Canada in 1953. He was an all-star offensive tackle in 1954 and 1955.

Meanwhile, Walker indicated his 1957 team will again be built around quarterback Sam (The Rifle) Etcheverry, rated Canada's best passer.

"I am not disillusioned about the power of the pass," said Walker in post-mortem of Saturday's game. "I still think that a good passing team can beat a good running team. But to win with a passing team you have to protect your passer and in Saturday's game our protection for our passer was not good."

RUMORS FALSE

Rumors circulated in Toronto and Montreal that Walker had tendered his resignation although he still has two years to run on a three-year contract signed in 1955.

"Coach Walker has never considered resigning," Leo Dandurand, president of Montreal Alouettes, said Monday. Walker was alongside him when he made the statement.

There was speculation Monday Jim St. John, another import tackle, may be released. Although recognized as a terrific competitor he has been injured prone during the last three years.

Herb Trawick, 35-year old guard, may decide to retire. He has been with Alouettes since the team was formed in 1946. He came here from Ohio State University but now is a Canadian citizen. If he decides to play again it is possible he would be welcomed back.

WASTE NO TIME

Grabbed quickly in the first round were such 1956 college All-American prospects as Stanford passing ace John Brodie, second choice named by San Francisco; Don Kramer, Michigan end, tapped by Green Bay; Len Dawson, Purdue quarterback, picked by Pittsburgh; Jim Brown, Syracuse halfback, selected by Cleveland, and Clarence Peska, Michigan State halfback, drawn by Philadelphia.

Commissioner Bert Bell presided over the partial draft session — the teams selected four rounds — called to meet the early Canadian competition for American football talent. The final 26 rounds of the annual player draft will be held during the league's mid-January meeting.

NOTE TO QUIT?

The selection of Hornung was a mild surprise since it was thought the Packers were interested in hard-running halfbacks in making their present quarterback, Tobin Rote, even more effective. The selection indicated the recent report that Rote would retire at the end of this season born some truth.

Other first-round choices were Jim Parker, Ohio State guard, by Baltimore; Don Bossler, Miami fullback, by Washington; Jerry Tubbs, Oklahoma centre, by Chicago Cardinals; Del Shodner, Baylor halfback, by Los Angeles; New York Giants' choice secured in a previous trade, Bill Glass, Earl Leggett, Louisiana State tackle, by the Bears.

Tommy McDonald, all-American backfielder from Oklahoma who was strongly rumored as a likely player for Edmonton Eskimos next season, was picked by Philadelphia in the third round.

Quarterback Ronnie Knox, who played with both Hamilton and Calgary in Canada this season, was drafted by Chicago Bears from UCLA.

Meanwhile, Billy Vessels and the Baltimore Colts provided the feature of Sunday's league play. Vessels, former Edmontion Eskimo star who was the outstanding college back of 1952 while playing for Oklahoma, scored three touchdowns to pace the Colts to a 26-21 victory over Los Angeles Rams.

Vessels, who had been allowed to carry the ball only four times as a substitute in Baltimore's first seven games, started in the lineup Sunday and gained 70 yards in nine rushes as well as catching three passes for an equal amount.

In other games Sunday, San Francisco battled to a 10-10 tie with Philadelphia; Chicago Bears came from behind to beat New York Giants, 17-17; Washington tripped Cleveland, 20-17, and Pittsburgh lost to Chicago Cardinals, 38-27.

Those hopes crashed into limbo, too, on Saturday. Mrs. Kyle got off last in her opening heat of the 100-metre dash — finished last.

It was probably even worse for Smith and Mackawa.

She lay there unmoving as the field swept toward the tape she had dreamed of snapping. They carried her off and her head still hung down, eyes avoiding the stares of 100,000 spectators, her tears dripping into the dust her spikes had trodden so hopefully.

And then there was Mrs. Kyle, a tiny woman who thought so happily of winning this race. She had counted on it so much that, when the Irish Olympic committee didn't have the money to send her, her husband put up the cash for her expenses. She rode her dreams 8,000 miles from Erin.

And then there was Mrs. Kyle, a tiny woman who thought so happily of winning this race. She had counted on it so much that, when the Irish Olympic committee didn't have the money to send her, her husband put up the cash for her expenses. She rode her dreams 8,000 miles from Erin.

She lay there unmoving as the field swept toward the tape she had dreamed of snapping. They carried her off and her head still hung down, eyes avoiding the stares of 100,000 spectators, her tears dripping into the dust her spikes had trodden so hopefully.

Wings Held to Tie

Bruins Still Hot; Extend NHL Lead

Boston Bruins, showing no signs of relenting their torrid National Hockey League pace, added a point to their lead Sunday, 3-1, while the runner-up Detroit Red Wings were being held to a 3-3 tie by Chicago's last-place Black Hawks.

In Sunday's third game, the Montreal Canadiens battled to a 1-1 deadlock with New York after walloping the Rangers, 6-2, at Montreal on Saturday night. The split in points kept against the luckless Hawks on goals by Billy Dea, Gordie Howe and Earl Reibell, answered only by Ed Litzenberger's ninth goal of the season. Ron Ingram, a rookie defenceman, got his first NHL goal with five minutes remaining and Nick Mickoski added on a pass from Glen Skov.

New York goalie Lorne Worsley was again sensational, stopping 39 shots and missing only on a slap shot off the boards by Dickie Moore, who scored his 11th of the season. Dean Prentice gave the Rangers the lead in the second period.

How long can I take to repay?—In the table below, there are just a few of many plans. They will give you some idea of time periods allowed for different amounts... from 4 to 24 months. Are all loan charges the same?—Up to $500 generally, yes; but remember, at Niagara, you get life insurance at no extra cost.

Above $500, the larger the amount and the longer the time—the lower the rate. Compare, then, "buy" more money at less cost of Niagara.

Why do people borrow money?—A few reasons are to consolidate a group of small debts; to reduce large payments for car and truck repairs; to meet emergencies; to repair or modernize homes; to enlarge a business; for seed, stock, fertilizer for farms; and to take advantage of low prices, when cash is paid.

Do many people borrow?—Yes, in Canada, 1 family in 4 borrow each year.

... One Whole Afternoon

Little Fillers Widely Read

Newspaper fillers—those informative little pieces at the end of a column which state such things as "Ottawa is the capital of Canada," and "in the daily press." Victoria Goto Club was told yesterday Speaker was Elmer Verner, production manager of Victoria Press Ltd., who explained how daily newspapers are produced. He said Victoria Press was worth about $1,000,000, that newspaper fillers were written by experts in their respective fields, and that the way in which they were used was to give the public a better understanding of the news.

Peter Goto, president of the Victoria Goto Club, was told yesterday

City Manager C. C. Wyatt had 600 vacant houses in Victoria, and a group of resolutions to joint the Census Bureau to jointly conduct the census of Victoria.

Mr. Mayor, Perry, was asked what he thought of the results.

A federal expert on experts had been sent to the areas to spring count was too low.

Mr. Wyatt, the mayor said, spent a whole afternoon in Ottawa arguing with Dominion Statistician Herbert Marshall and five of his assistants, "and they finally agreed to send someone out."

The federal officials, Mayor said, wanted him to say we

Allowed Reds' Murder

Nagy Exiled, Kadar Explains

BUDAPEST (UPI)—Russian-backed Hungarian Premier Janos Kadar said last night that former premier Imre Nagy was exiled because he allowed the murder of "scores of Communists." He said Nagy would have to stay out of the country for some time.

Kadar said the former premier might be killed by "provocateurs" if he returned to Hungary and the crime would be attributed to the government. But he gave no positive indication of Nagy's present whereabouts.

Kadar's statements were the first official explanation of Nagy's disappearance since the government announced he had gone to Romania "at his own request."

Kadar made the explanation in a 30-minute broadcast over radio Budapest in reply to demands from Hungary's strike leaders for a face-to-face meeting with Nagy to see for themselves whether he really is a free man as the communists claim.

The Budapest Workers Council claiming to represent 60 per cent of the striking miners and factory workers throughout the country, insisted on a conference with Nagy, their own press, their own workers' "militia" and distribution of western Red Cross aid to workers.

Kadar said in his broadcast that Nagy had not left Hungary forever but would be gone "for some time." He reiterated promises that the former premier would not be put on trial.

The puppet premier said

IMRE NAGY

Nagy was pushed further and further to the right by the country's revolutionaries between Oct. 30 and Nov. 3.

Nagy committed an indefinite crime when, as a result of his actions, he set off a chain of events of communists in the Hungarian territories.

West is now a fugitive of the crimes with his name. The action.

Kadar said Nagy should have resigned as premier at that time but instead he tried to cover up his actions.

Then he said Nagy packed his baggage and got out of the Yugoslav embassy.

"By this action, he left Hungarian territory and demonstrated that he did not want to have anything to do with the Hungarian cabinet," Kadar said.

He said Nagy subsequently informed the government through diplomatic channels that he wanted to go abroad.

Kadar also announced a general crackdown on the leaders of the fight against the government. He named Mihal Gomes, a man known as a fascist, and Andras Szando, a writer, as two of the leaders who would be put on trial.

The premier contended that the intervention of Russian troops in the uprising was at Hungary's request and prevented a third world war. He said the presence of Soviet troops was an internal affair since it was based on an international treaty—the Warsaw Pact.

Kadar promised that members of non-Communist parties would be brought into the government as soon as order is restored.

The six-day-old revolution remained almost completely effective despite the cold, increasing hunger and lack of supplies.

A spokesman for the communist party said some workers are returning to their jobs despite the odds of their possible lives.

"Our children are starving and freezing," another said in explanation.

But throughout the country mines and factories remained idle.

Russia Disarms Romanian Army

LONDON (UPI)—The Observer says Russia is systematically disarming the Romanian army, which in January, 1950, had 1.5 million men. Only the security forces who are carrying out the operation and heading over the roads to the Soviet occupation forces are being left with their machine guns.

BELGRADE (UPI)—The Bulgarian government denied reports of mass arrests aimed at crushing a wave of anti-Stalinist sentiment in Bulgaria.

ROMA (UPI)—Communist Albania Monday was reported increasing salaries and cutting prices effective Jan. 1 in an effort to reduce discontent.

MOSCOW (UPI)—The leaders of Romania's Communists yesterday came to Moscow Monday in search of economic aid from the Kremlin.

BELGRADE (Reuters)—Yugoslavia, an anti-Yugoslav gesture on the two weeks ago by writing an open letter to the Yugoslav government, has now broken off all relations with the Yugoslav government. But some did see a Canadian use of the light metal, notably cooking with aluminum foil. One Canadian troop showed how they used this basic material for doing potatoes, steaks and other foods over the camp fire; how they kept food fresh summer heat by protecting it with aluminum. If this missionary work carries the idea back to distant lands, Canada may have to turn out still more aluminum foil, even though last year her output, if laid in a 12 inch strip, would reach $82,000 miles.

Bennett Returns with Millions

Premier Bennett returned from Ottawa yesterday with a federal government promise to contribute a total of $10,000,000 towards the cost of building the Pacific Great Eastern Highway.

The premier said he was not asked for an estimate of the cost of the highway, but confirmed that the cost would be about $100,000,000. He said the highway would be built in two stages, the first stage being from Victoria to the Fraser River, and the second stage being from the Fraser River to the coast.

Re-route the Trans-Canada Highway by building a new span over the Fraser River north of the Pattullo Bridge, constructing a new arterial highway to the new Second Narrows Bridge, and taking in the Upper Levels Highway to Horseshoe Bay as part of the Trans-Canada Highway.

"This should answer all our critics in that the federal government has now recognized the value of this important railroad," said Premier Bennett. "And it shows how far off Jimmy Sinclair the minister against B.C. was when he said there would never be a federal subsidy for the southern extension."

The premier was still tuning in federal Estimates Minister James G. Scott of North Vancouver, however, for the sharp political maneuver of giving the green light to the Ottawa talks at the earliest possible time.

He is one of a number of Premier Bennett. This traffic is now in motion.

Federal authorities intend to move a request from the premier for the $10,000,000 grant to be paid for the first of the two-stage stages of the Trans-Canada highway to Victoria.

We're not sure if we'll be able to get a grant for the second stage of the highway, but we'll do our best to make it happen," said Premier Bennett.

"This should answer all our critics in that the federal government has now recognized the value of this important railroad," said Premier Bennett. "And it shows how far off Jimmy Sinclair the minister against B.C. was when he said there would never be a federal subsidy for the southern extension."

Highway would see the western mainland terminal for the road removed from downtown Vancouver, and transferred to Horseshoe Bay.

The road will bypass both New Westminster and Vancouver, cutting the traffic

"We proposed that if there are not six provinces willing by next March that the federal government enter into an agreement with any province wanting to," said the premier. "Ottawa said 'No' but we will continue to press for the same thing. We do not guarantee the date, but we do guarantee the intent of the Canadian-wide health scheme and that if B.C. joined into an agreement with us, we would do so."

"MEMORY'S WALL"

an AUTOBIOGRAPHY

by LADY EATON

...The Nostalgic story of Half a Century of Canadian Life

Lady Eaton looks back on a full rich life and draws from a wealth of exciting experience to paint a vivid picture of this country's growth. From childhood in a small Ontario town, she came to Victorian Toronto, where she met and married John Craig Eaton, a man destined to become head of one of the world's largest department stores and to be knighted by King George V.

"Memory's Wall" relates the fascinating growth of a nation-wide enterprise and reveals a broad acquaintance with many of the world's distinguished citizens.

An astute businesswoman, Lady Eaton was for many years an active director of the Company, and as a busy and devoted mother, raised a family of six children. Through her patronage of the arts and sciences and her tireless work for human welfare, she has become one of Canada's best-known citizens.

"Memory's Wall" is an important book to all Canadians . . . a story of the people and events of a great era, told by one of its leading figures.

What's Cooking!

Pre-Christmas Meals Planned Economically

Let's start off with an exact quotation from a reader . . . "These days food is so expensive that it betrays us to make the very most of what we buy." O. K. Samra (that's her pen name) I heartily agree with you. But you won't see me except on special occasions. I do my utmost to keep our meals simple because like a lot of you I just have to. Do you remember the days when a loaf of bread cost ten cents and the best cup of coffee along with cream and sugar was a mere nickel? Shows how far we've come! Now but surely I am getting to know a lot of our readers personally.

And they tell me all kinds of things. Some admit they have never had so much money in all their lives while others (including yours truly) have to learn to stretch the so-called almighty dollar just about as far as is will go.

But no matter which of the two groups you belong to, these few remaining weeks

A LOVELIER YOU

By Mary Sue Miller

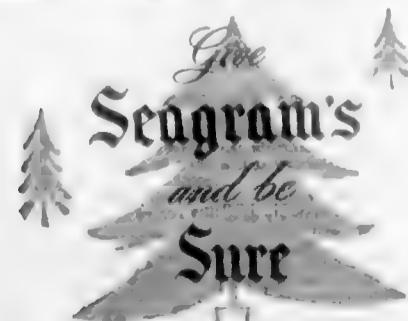

MAGIC GROOMER. The time a woman can't do a thing with her hair is usually when she most wants to. But YOU can if you practice this bit of grooming magic.

Brush hair into desired lines as nearly as possible, and dampen evenly with hair spray. Touch up waves, smooth areas and curls with a comb roll or tuck in wisps and pins. Wrap head tightly with a wide strip of fine mesh veiling and spray again. When spray dries first remove all pins and then veil. That's all . . . do not comb again or you will spoil the finish. And it's one that benefits any coming event on your calendar.

RULE YOUR WAVES?

What's your hair problem? You will find a way to overcome it in this 16-page booklet, Rule Your Waves. Advice includes beauty treatments for oily, dry, and normal hair, ways to manage unruly locks, how to add color and highlights, tips on cutting permanents and styling, grooming tricks. Write me in care of this newspaper for your copy, enclosing a large self-addressed, stamped envelope and 20c in coin.

do. Nobody saw much wrong in smoking in public, whilst men to some extent they are more inclined to do so than women.

And since rules protect us all, we serve the interest of society.

Women were twice as often surprisedly little from men in the standards they hold for good social and moral conduct but they apply them differently, according to psychologist James C. Diggory of the University of Pennsylvania.

He surveyed 400 men and women students at the university as to the degrees of their disapproval of 20 such items as shoplifting, malicious gossip, striking a child, swearing, hitchhiking, telling off-color stories, appearing drunk in public and attending a burlesque show.

Also included were such personally obnoxious habits as spitting in public, clearing the throat noisily and talking in a loud harsh voice.

The main difference in the attitudes of the women and men was that women tended to apply the same standards to everyone under all conditions, while the men were inclined to change their rankings according to who was doing it and under what circumstances.

Dr. Diggory's findings are virtually the same as those reported earlier in a survey of nearly 600 men and women students at the University of Texas.

The women's attitudes are organized around institutional standards of conduct, while men's are centered around situations relevant to the problems of single individuals regardless of institutional standards, Dr. Diggory explains.

Shoplifting was considered relatively the most reprehensible conduct on everybody's list, male and female. Striking a child, malicious gossip, spitting in public, appearing drunk, reading obscene literature and swearing also rated uniformly in the "top 10" of things not to do.

The emphasis women place on the significance of rules has three consequences, according to Dr. Diggory:

"They differentiate less in the application of rules to particular situations and people."

"They have certain resentments at the restrictions imposed upon themselves by the rules, and therefore have a tendency to feel that they should be applied equally to all classes of actors."

They were more tolerant of women gossiping and using too much cologne. The women, however, tended to apply their censure across the board without discrimination as to sex or race.

Shortage Is Major Problem

Ex-Teachers to Be Recruited

Provincial officials will be training bursary loans for those in young people in taking up teaching to conduct a province-wide need of financial assistance.

2. Continue the establishment of future-teacher clubs in high schools of teachers in other occupations with a view to interesting suitable

3. Make the province-wide survey 4. And once again send an official teachers who have expressed willingness to emigrate to B.C.

"In fairness to the British educational authorities no British Education Minister Leslie P.

Peterson said yesterday.

Special attention will be given to married women whose children are now of school age and who might be interested in returning to the classroom.

Others will be asked if they would help out in schools in cases of emergency such as when regular teachers are sick or away.

Shortage of teachers is one of the major problems of education in the province today.

School population increased from 125,000 in 1945 to about 258,000 this year and promises to be in excess of 325,000 by 1965, said Mr. Peterson. At the present time the increase in school population is about 18,000 a year.

"A considerable portion of this increase is by immigration," said the minister.

For the first nine months of this year there was an immigration increase of 2,897 families with 5,678 children under the age of 15.

EMPLOYMENT INCREASED

Teacher employment has increased from 6,622 in 1952 to 9,482 in the current school year or an increase of 43 per cent in five years. Mr. Peterson reported. An estimated 10,200 teachers will be employed in B.C. schools during the 1957-58 school year.

"In addition to providing for the increase in pupils it is necessary to take care of the replacement of teachers who leave the profession temporarily or permanently," said the minister.

The combined pupil increase and teacher replacement made it necessary to recruit 1,200 new teachers in 1952 and 1,600 new teachers in 1956.

It is estimated 1,700 new teachers will be needed in Sept. 1957.

During the past five years B.C.'s teacher-training schools have trained less than 50 per cent of its teacher needs and the balance has been met by teacher immigration from other provinces and countries.

"Because of teacher shortage elsewhere this source of supply is diminishing very rapidly," continued the minister.

In an effort to ease the situation, the department will:

Authorities Hunting Dangerous Tree Lights

City electrical inspectors started checking Victoria stores yesterday for a type of Christmas tree lights described as "very dangerous."

The sets, of 36 tiny bell-shaped lights on a continuous string, lack Canadian Standards Association approval. Sale of electrical goods without the CSA safety approval label is prohibited.

According to Vancouver electrical inspectors, 10,000 sets of the Japanese-made lights have been brought into B.C.
